

Dear Sirs,

I wish to encourage you in most strongest terms of the necessity of promoting Low Power FM radio broadcasts to ensure viable local community input across the land.

Far too much of our information and news content is concentrated in the few hands of the media monopoly conglomerates. This manifests itself in pervasive syndicated programing and homogenous information content.

Far too many pressing human needs via our social, economic, and political systems are being systematically ignored by the corporate media system.

Empowering communities across the land through a multiplicity of "voices" provided through independent locally based Low Power FM radio stations would go a long way to ameliorate the growing inequities of power and wealth among our society.
